Ronan Corrigan is an Irish director with a unique creative voice that blends style & humour through a distinctly Gen-Z lens.

He has won a prestigious Webby Award for his film work for Boiler Room and was nominated as Best Rock Newcomer at the 2020 UKMVAs. Through this success in the digital sphere, he has also worked as a Creative Editor for Netflix UK's Writers Room, developing commercial work reaching hundreds of millions of views online.

His previous work has made the official selection of both BAFTA & Oscar qualifying festivals and he was selected to be part of BAFTA X BFI CREW in 2021 where he was paired up with Element Pictures. His recent projects have included working with Warner Music, Universal Music, Channel 4, BBC Three & The BFI. He is currently in development of his first feature film with Bazelevs Company.
