Danielle is an emerging screenwriter with a passion for telling stories about outsiders, which represents the diversity in people that she grew up around in South London, and is reflected in her projects.

Her drama feature Henry and Gino is currently a semi-finalist in the BlueCat Screenwriting 2022 competition, placing the script in the top 3% of the feature entries.

Danielle has a handful of TV and feature projects in development, including a short exploring victim blaming women who are sexually harassed.
